SENATOR-ELECT IS THE FIRST WITNESS FOR ACCUSED WARDEN

FINGERPRINTS HIT BY COUNSEL FOR TRIO OF ACCUSED

Engineer-Expert Is on Stand For State In Hall-Mills Case

HOOF PRINTS ARE DESCRIBED

Schwartz Helps Lay Predicate For Mrs. Gibson

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The defense today continued its efforts to tear down the fingerprint evidence introduced by the prosecution in the Hall-Mills murder trial in their attempt to link Willie Stevens, one of the three defendants, with the slaying.

Overcast skies, with rain falling part of the time, today reduced somewhat the crowd seeking admission.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Again today defense counsel in the trial of the Hall-Mills case jumped on finger print evidence with both feet. With Edward Schwartz, Newark finger print expert, under cross-examination brought over from yesterday, a contest developed between the witness and the 66-year-old Robert H. McCarter, former attorney general, conducting the cross-examination.

The dual capacity of Mr. Schwartz as a civil engineer and a finger print expert precipitated the exchange. The witness, it has been developed, first entered the case to make a survey of the territory about the scene of the slaying of Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills, 44 days after the commission of the crime.

The witness said he found some disturbance of the ground, resembling hoof prints near the place where Mrs. Jane Gibson has said she tied her mule, during her ride through DeRusse's lane on the night of the murder.

The defense insisted that the state should be required to submit proof that there had been no physical change in the ground in the interim between the double murder and survey by the witness. The testimony was ruled competent by Judge Charles W. Parker "for what it is worth."

The finger print discussion continued when Joseph A. Faurot, former deputy police commissioner of New York city, followed Schwartz to the stand. Faurot was encouraged by the cross-examining counsel to go into a technical discussion of the type of finger prints.

Egg Shortage Is Not Looked For

Being supplied with eggs from the Athens house, E. T. Gray and Sons are supplying quite a number of local retailers, it was stated at that establishment today. Eggs are being shipped direct here from Athens, being gathered at that point from over a vast rural section. Large quantities of eggs are being sold locally to retailers who feared for a time that a shortage was imminent.

HOME ERECTED

Material is being assembled on the farm of Ben Poole, deputy sheriff, for construction of a modern five-room bungalow. Mr. Poole plans to retire to his 419-acre farm in January when Sheriff-elect Davis takes office.

RULE BEGINS

The display advertising ruling, bringing all copy for display advertising into this office by six o'clock the evening prior to publication the next day, goes into effect today. The new ruling does not effect classified advertising which is received until 10:30 o'clock on the morning of publication.

W. S. Finch, advertising manager, declared today that merchants are generally pleased with the new ruling, realizing that a better appearance of advertising material will result and that the afternoon newspaper will go on the streets at an earlier hour.

Jane Desires To Be Ruth Of The Hall-Mills Trial

You Have Them On The Run Now She Tells Detective

SHE WANTS TO TESTIFY

Is 'Willing To Die' After Revealing Her Story

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Jane Gibson, star state's witness in the Hall-Mills murder case, who is ill in a hospital here, expects to be the "Babe Ruth of the trial."

"You've got them on the run," she told a detective who visited her for Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson yesterday.

"But just wait until I get well. If I drop dead after testifying, I am willing to meet my God. I have nothing but the truth to tell, but God knows how I want to tell it."

Mrs. Gibson has pyelitis, a kidney infection. Doctors said she cannot leave the hospital for at least two weeks.

How Mrs. Gibson Wants to Appear

Following the example of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, one of the principal defendants in the Hall-Mills murder case, Mrs. Jane Gibson, "pig woman" and principal witness, had this retouched photograph distributed to newspapers.

'EDUCATION WEEK' IS BEING OBSERVED

Special Programs On Several Days In Decatur Schools

"Education Week" is being observed in the Decatur schools this week and special programs are being rendered by the students and teachers.

Tuesday morning Prof. E. L. Hays, county superintendent of education, delivered an interesting address on "Patriotism," the topic for the day. He stressed the necessity for love of home, of school and of country.

Wednesday will be "Opportunity Day" and the program for that occasion will be rendered by the students.

On Thursday, the school will render its customary "Armistice Day" program and Rev. Noble R. Edwards, pastor of the First Christian church, has accepted an invitation to be the speaker on that date.

The programs were arranged under the direction of Miss Lucile Russell, a member of the Junior High faculty.

Future Shopgirls To Have Fresh Air Made By Electrical Machine Without Rain, Snow Or Sunstroke

By International News Service TOLEDO, O., Nov. 9.—Pity the poor shop girl.

Soon she will be working in manufactured weather—no rain or snow and no danger of heat strokes—an even temperature with fresh air the year round.

At least that is the prediction of Howard E. Lovett, engineering expert for the R. H. Macey stores who explained to local engineers here how great department stores have progressed.

Ideal conditions are to be brought about by electrical control of air for health protection of employees and customers alike, Lovett explained.

NO CLUES LEFT BY ROBBERS OF BANK

Officers Differ Today On Plan To Solve The Mystery

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 9.—(AP)—A 24-hour search has failed to bring to light a single clue which might lead to the apprehension of five robbers who yesterday held up employees and customers of the Security Trust and Savings bank of North Birmingham, and escaped with $20,000.

The trail was lost a few blocks from the bank and the slightest inkling of a clue was left to work upon. Some of the officers at work on the case believed the gang separated, changed clothing and remained in Birmingham.

Other officers advanced the theory the robbers left Birmingham yesterday but doubled back last night. Other theories are advanced but the authorities apparently have made little head-way in running down a band of professionals who staged one of the most daring jobs ever recorded here.

APPOINTMENT OF THOMAS IS LIKELY

Prattville Man To Be Superintendent Of Alabama Banks

News received here today of the likelihood of appointment of Judge C. E. Thomas, of Prattville, as state superintendent of banks, was received with much interest. Montgomery press dispatches indicated that Governor-elect Bibb Graves virtually has decided on the selection of Judge Thomas over Mr. Montgomery, of Anniston, who was also talked of as a successor to A. E. Jackson, Decatur and Hartselle banker, who has served as superintendent during the administration of Governor Brandon.

The same dispatches indicated the decision of Charles McCall, attorney general-elect, to name James Esdale, of Birmingham, as assistant attorney general, having duties with the Alabama public service commission.

Mr. Esdale is well known as a reputed prominent official of the Ku Klux Klan in this state.

Lad Is a Victim Of Typhoid Fever

Arty Stephens, aged 11 years, died Monday morning at an early hour following an attack of typhoid fever. Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at two o'clock at Friendship cemetery, interment following at that point, Priest directing. The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stephens, Somerville route 2, and besides his parents is survived by seven sisters.

Rainfall Heavy During 24 Hours

During the past 24 hours nearly two inches of rain has fallen in Albany-Decatur. Mrs. A. H. Irons, government observer, announced today that the rainfall had reached a total of 1.99 inches. The Tennessee river was continuing to fall, the gauge showing a reading of 1.4 but if the rain was general above here, the river is expected to show a marked rise within the next few hours.

KIWANIS SETTLE UPON A MINSTREL SHOW AS ACTIVITY

Ballot At Monday Night Meeting Is Deciding Note

FUNDS TO GO TO CHARITY

Rankin And Davis Will Direct 1926 Production

The second activity of the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis Club will be in the form of a minstrel show, to be offered local patrons about December 15.

With nearly half the membership gathered at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening the minstrel show as the second activity of the club, the proceeds to go toward charity, was definitely decided upon.

H. R. Davis and M. R. Rankin will direct the show, the cast being taken from the ranks of Kiwanians and from among those talented along such lines outside of the club roster.

Mr. Rankin stated today that he had already started his plans, realizing that the responsibility is one requiring a great deal of time and thought. It is planned that the show will be offered on the nights of December 15 and 16, though these dates have not been definitely announced.

No program will be sold in connection with the show.

The minstrel plan was adopted after much discussion had been entered from various members, some desiring the minstrel show and others approving the plan for the publication of an issue of the Albany-Decatur Daily, the net proceeds in either activity were to have gone toward the annual charity program. The decision of the club was unanimous.

The Kiwanis Club plans an unusually active year in the distribution of charities. The organization has sponsored a movement to center the activities of churches in these cities and civic organizations into a central fund, thus eliminating all duplication.

The Country Store, the first activity to produce revenue for charities, is understood to have netted near a thousand dollars to be spent through the winter season and particularly at Christmas time when many little hearts are made glad with visits from an unexpected Santa Claus and many others are made happy in receiving the necessities of life they have been unable to purchase.

Mr. Rankin and Mr. Davis probably will make their plans known within a short time and a call will be sent forth to local talent for the first rehearsals. Kiwanians have expressed belief that the show will exceed any similar undertaking the club has handled.

County Schools Now In Session

All of the schools of Morgan county now are in session, it was announced here today by Prof. E. L. Hays, county superintendent of education.

The last of the schools to open began the work of its term Tuesday morning when the school near Mt. Hope, above White, on the headwaters of Flint creek, began enrolling students.

"I was fearful for a time that school would be delayed," Mr. Hays stated, "but yesterday I managed to find a teacher for it, and the school began work this morning."

Legion Expects To Reorganize

A meeting likely will be held soon by the Morgan county post of the American Legion, according to Commander Ralph White, to reorganize its forces and probably to wage a membership campaign to enlist the interest of all ex-service men in the organization.

The Legion is also expected soon to take action on the proposal that the ex-service men of Morgan county, who lost their lives in the World War, be honored by a bronze tablet, with their names, to be placed at the new highway bridge.

UNITED STATES IS LENDING TO WORLD BILLIONS IN GOLD

Wall Street Takes Lead From The Foreign Nations

FRANCE WILL BORROW MUCH

Financial Crutch Is To Be Fashioned By Europe

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—The great strides which Wall Street, financial heart of the United States, has made in supplanting London as the world's money lender were measured today in an estimate by bankers here that well over $1,000,000,000 in gold will be lent to foreign borrowers in 1926 by the American people.

This golden stream which once seeped principally from sources along the Atlantic seaboard now flows in large volume from the reservoir of savings in the great mid-west and Pacific coast. Out of this vast sum Europe will fashion a financial crutch to support the final work of restoration from the world war. American loans to the world are now said to exceed $10,000,000,000, and it is this pecuniary interest that is fast giving the people of the United States what bankers call the international mind.

Nearly $4,000,000,000 has been lent in alien lands in the last three years. France is expected to come into the American money market early next year for large sums to aid in pegging the franc at some undetermined stabilization point and to replenish working capital for her industries and bankers are trying to forecast the amount of France's new borrowings. The total may reach several hundred million dollars of which probably a third will be for government purposes and the rest for corporations.

No New Details On Reeves Death

No new details on the death of Leonard Reeves, Union Hill resident, had been received Tuesday at the sheriff's office, it was stated by B. C. Poole, deputy. Reeves is said to have died as result of a .32 caliber pistol wound received Sunday afternoon while he was in company with two companions in the vicinity of the Union Hill church.

Reports from the Benevolent hospital today were to the effect that both Thomas E. Pride and Sam Cross, injured Friday afternoon in automobile accidents, are "getting along fine." Both were caught beneath overturned cars on the Florence-Athens and the Decatur-Tusculum roads.

"Hospital" Repairs Broken Books; More Volumes Needed In Library

Those Books Beyond Repair Must Be Replaced, Says Miss Troy, Librarian.

A hospital has been established at the Albany high school. Operations are being made and stitches are being taken without the administering of an anesthetic. Weekly number of books in the high school library receive treatment from Miss Amelia Troy, librarian in charge, who acts in capacity of general surgeon to the defective books. Adhesive tape is the surgical supply most in demand for the books with weak backs. Stitches are taken when necessary and new covers are added occasionally. Often the interior of the books receive attention thumb prints and other signs of abuse being erased.

"I leave a book on the shelf as long as it can be used. Then I repair those that can be remedied. Some are beyond all hope of repair," Miss Troy says.

Decided Drop In Temperature Is Due In 36 Hours

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Much colder weather in the east must be looked for in the next 36 hours and in the South cold wave warnings are out for western Kentucky and western Tennessee. Frost is probable from Mississippi eastward to extreme northern Florida.

A disturbance moving northward to the lower St. Lawrence Valley will bring snow flurries tonight in the upper Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region if the prediction holds good. In the wake of the disturbance the thermometer will drop decidedly in all sections between the Mississippi and the Atlantic coast.

COOLIDGE REPLIES TO TAX CRITICS

Non-Partisan Plan Is Urged by President's Spokesman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP)—President Coolidge today asked for non-partisan consideration of his tax-refund proposal. He made known through the White House spokesman his desire that party lines be forgotten in consideration of the proposal by Congress.

It also was disclosed that the income tax credit plan, announced yesterday by Secretary Mellon, was not the final proposal of the administration. The president will confer with members of the house ways and means committee before recommending how the surplus should be returned to the taxpayers.

The White House pronouncement did not refer directly to Democratic charges that the president's move was a political one, but it was said that Mr. Coolidge felt politics must be avoided at all hazards.

If the tax credit proposal becomes involved in a political controversy at the short session, it will be difficult, in the president's opinion, to work out any relief for the taxpayers at this time.

The president thinks the best means of action by Congress would be that pursued in the last Congress when a non-partisan agreement was worked out for the passage of the revenue act.

Time Limit Near To Pay Car Tax

As the time limit for payment of automobile taxes for the year neared an expiration today, court-house corridors were filled with persons desiring to get their new tags.

Owners of automobiles have only until November 13 to pay the tax without incurring additional penalties.

HUGO BLACK GIVES 'TESTIMONIAL' OF DAVIS' CHARACTER

Court Recesses For Defense To Confer On Proceedure

THIRTY STILL TO BE HEARD

End Of Case Looked For About Close of Present Week

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Falling in two attempts to quash the charge of murder against Charles R. Davis, former Flat Top prison mine warden, now on trial before Judge John P. McCoy, of the criminal court, in connection with the death of James Knox, state convict, August 14, 1924, the defense Tuesday placed Hugo L. Black, United States senator-elect on the stand as the first of about 30 witnesses who are to unfold the defense of the accused warden.

Mr. Black gave a character testimonial in behalf of Warden Davis and promptly thereafter court recessed, in order to allow Rodger Beddow, Hugh Locke and George Fray, defense counsel, to confer on the order of presenting the defense.

When court recessed Mr. Locke said that only about 30 witnesses, several of whom are to testify to the defendant's character, would be used, and expressed an opinion that the case would reach a climax Friday or Saturday at the latest.

Henceforth court will remain in session until 7 p. m. each day in order to speed the trial to a conclusion. After Judge McCoy ruled that evidence adduced must concern events immediately connected with the death of Knox, the state offered only two other witnesses. They were Robert Blanchard and Ephraim Hardnett, convicts, who testified that Knox was beaten before he was placed in the laundry vat, where the state alleges he died.

Straw hoses and Davis struck Knox, Blanchard said. Sticks, bottles and fuses were used, the witnesses testified. One stick used had a piece of iron attached to it, Blanchard said.

Kiddies Clinic Most Successful

The clinic, held Friday in Huntsville, for crippled children was most successful, according to report made today by D. L. C. Murphree, district health officer, who returned here yesterday from a trip which included visits to Huntsville, Etowah and Marshall counties.

Dr. Murphree declared one of the most impressive features of the Huntsville clinic was the splendid interest and cooperation given by the physicians of Morgan county.

Thermometer On The Decline Now

After a period of Indian Summer, almost ideal fall weather, the Twin Cities today were in the grip of a cool wave. Last night the thermometer registered a maximum of 62 and a minimum of 49, far from being the coldest night of the year. Tonight's temperature, however, was expected to be considerably lower.

BUY AT HOME

I saw the niftiest suit of clothes in a window in a neighboring city. The price was what I wished to pay so I stepped in and bought. I shopped around a while and finally took the train home, broke but pleased with my purchase. I had bought a few cents lower than at home, without figuring the cost of the trip.

The next morning when I returned to work the boss called me to his desk and informed me that the salary next week would be lower than usual, he said business was not so good as he would like to see it. Buy-at-home.

MANILA. — Reverend Leslie Wolfe and two Filipino champions of fundamentalism are on their way to fight for their faith in the annual convention of the Churches of Christ at Memphis, Tennessee.

Because he insisted on the enforcement of total immersion as requisite to church membership, Rev. Wolfe was ousted from his place as missionary by the local board, controlled by modernists. The Filipino members of the church are standing by Rev. Wolfe, and refuse to let the modernist substitute of Rev. Wolfe preach in the church.

The modernist-fundamentalist fight has been waged vigorously for the past six months. Each side has started publications that are of a virile, not to say vitriolic tone. The modernist organ is an editorial dubbed by the fundamentalists with the title of "tomcats," and said the opposition editor was wielding a "poison pen," and accused the fundamentalist writers as "theological sharpshooters and doctrinal gunmen."

INDIGESTION

North Carolina Lady Says She Had An Awful Time With Indigestion, Till She Took Black-Draught.

Pilot Mountain, N. C. — "For several years I suffered with a bad case of chronic indigestion," says Mrs. Sam C. Inman, of this place. "I had bad spells with my stomach. At times I had severe pains in my right side. My stomach would get upset and I would have an awful time. It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I was in pretty bad shape."

"My husband had been using Theodor's Black-Draught for some time for indigestion. He had spells of it too, so he suggested that I try Black-Draught. I took some from his box, just to see if it would help me, and I found it was the very thing for my trouble. It did me a great deal of good. My condition was brought on by a chronic case of constipation and, by getting relief from this, I found my general health was much better."

"We keep Black-Draught in the house all the time. Whenever I find I need it, I take several doses and thus avert a bad spell of indigestion. It is a splendid medicine and I am glad to say so."

What Hubby Saw Thru Spyglass In the Room Across the Street

LADY OF THE LENSES.
The Former Mrs. Ada Anna Fulton, Trenton's "Spyglass Divorcee," Who Married "the Man in the Case."

"I DON'T love her and she knows it," said the gentleman co-respondent, in Trenton's famous "spy-glass divorce" suit.

But the co-respondent probably was kidding when he made that announcement in the court room, for six days after the lady was divorced, he married her.

"Some of these days you may go too far with me," must have been the thought of the aggrieved husband, namely, William Ernest Fulton. He must have thought it was adding insult to injury for Warren Vandergrift to marry his wife after co-responding her that way, for now he has filed suit against the man who appeared in the biggest end of the spyglass, demanding $50,000 damages for alienation of Mrs. Fulton's affections.

John L. Kuser, wealthy Trenton brewer, was sued by Fulton for $100,000 damages on the same complaint.

Trenton had a real live, unique sensation when the Fulton divorce case came up. Fulton, on the stand, told how his wife, having established herself independently in an apartment in Trenton, refused to let him in. Thereupon, he said, with two detectives as witnesses, he took his stand in a second-story window of the house across the street, and, peering through binoculars, saw his wife in the arms of another, namely, Warren Vandergrift.

The evidence of the lenses won Fulton his divorce, but Mrs. Fulton was given custody of their six-year-old daughter, Nettie, with the provision that the father was to have her two weeks each June, July and August. There was a quarrel over this arrangement, which resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Fulton and her mother on a charge of "kidnaping" the child, although she claimed that Fulton was the one at fault, having kept Nettie longer than the court decree permitted.

Mrs. Fulton's defiant answer to his action was the announcement of her forthcoming wedding to the co-respondent. And, true to her word, she was married to Vandergrift in New York City in September.

MODERN WOMEN FOLLOW LEAD OF GRANDMOTHERS

A glimpse of the fashions of the modern "flapper" of today and the up-to-the-minute girl of 50 years ago, would naturally lead one to expect the woman of then and now to have little in common. But, just as the women of that age used St. Joseph's G. F. P. for that purpose for which it is intended, so do the women and girls of today.

The makers of St. Joseph's G. F. P. combined in their preparation those ingredients which were recognized at that time as the most effective in producing the results which they intended for their compound to produce, and during more than half a century it has stood the tests of everyday use in building up and strengthening women.

Mrs. Nora Peters of 216 Grant St., San Antonio, Texas, says: "I was terribly weak and run-down and I didn't see how I was going to get my strength back."

"Then I started using St. Joseph's G. F. P., and am now on my fourth bottle. I have a dandy appetite; sleep like a child and am gaining in strength every day."

MASONIC NEWS GIVES THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: A GUIDE FOR RIGHT LIVING.

In a recent issue, the Masonic News publishes a guide for right living, which, if universally followed, would change the temper and the temperament of the entire world. The News says:

To live according to your convictions. To be what you are, and not pretend to be what you are not.

To live honestly within your means and not dishonestly upon the means of others.

To speak the truth when by a little prevarication you can get some special advantage.

To refuse to knuckle down and bend the knee to the wealthy, even though you are poor.

When mortified and embarrassed by humiliating disaster, to seek in your ruins the elements for future success.

To refuse to do a thing which is wrong because others do it, or because it is customary and done in trade.

To stay home evenings and improve yourself, when your comrades spend their evenings having a good time.

To remain in honest poverty, while others grow rich by questionable methods which you could easily use yourself.

To refrain from gossip, when others about you delight in it, and to stand up for an absent person who is being abused.

Not to bend the knee to popular prejudice, but to stand firmly erect while others are bowing and fawning for praise and power.

But it always pays.

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY GIVEN FOR TWIN CITIES TO ADVANCE.

The Daily understands that the Albany-Decatur Junior Chamber of Commerce is working on a plan, by means of which it is possible that a baseball club will be brought to the Twin Cities to train next spring. Just how much chance the Twin Cities have to obtain the club this year is not known, but The Daily is sure that the Junior Chamber will overlook no opportunity to press the advantages of Albany-Decatur.

The Daily long has advocated the bringing here of a baseball club for spring training. The climate here during March usually is well adapted for the limbering up of athletic muscles and facilities could be arranged for the visitors without undue expense.

It has not been established yet whether any concerted effort on behalf of the local citizenship will be necessary or not, but like all other community enterprises, it is likely that public co-operation will be forthcoming, for the bringing here of a baseball club for training will result in much favorable publicity for Albany and Decatur.

Baseball fans are more conversant with the advantages offered to a community by virtue of having been selected as a site for spring training by a baseball club, but the public will appreciate the fact that much can be accomplished in a community by taking advantage of the opportunity given for exploitation of these cities through the club.

The Daily wishes the Junior Chamber the greatest success in its new undertaking and pledges its aid in any way possible to bring about a successful consummation of the negotiations.

PRESIDENT URGES AID FOR NATIONAL RED CROSS DRIVE.

On November 11, the annual Red Cross enrollment campaign will get underway in America, and President Coolidge has issued the following proclamation in aid of the drive:

"The American Red Cross has a foremost place in the ranks of distinctive American institutions which we honor and loyally support," the proclamation said. "Operating in practically every city, town and county in the United States, as well as in our territorial possessions, it has become an inmate part of our everyday life. To it we turn instinctively and confidently when sudden calamities occur.

"Each year we have renewed proof of the willingness, the promptness and the efficiency of this organization in responding to the call of duty. It has become the recognized agency of our government and of our people in meeting emergencies calling for prompt assistance of a material character whether on our own or foreign soil.

"It is not alone a time of disaster that the Red Cross serves humanity. It has been called the 'greatest mother in the world,' to thousands of ex-service men not yet recovered from disabilities received during the war. As a definite duty placed upon it by the congress the Red Cross does much to prevent as well as to relieve suffering. In teaching methods of life saving and safeguarding the public health, the organization has become as valuable in time of peace as in war.

"In these many services to suffering humanity the American Red Cross is able to act in the name of all the people of the United States. This is so because each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day the organization extends to everyone the invitation to enroll in its ranks. Its work is supported by these membership dues.

"It is a privilege and a duty shared by all our people to continue our support of this fine organization. As president of the United States and as president of the American Red Cross, I earnestly ask all our citizens to renew their membership in this legion of mercy."

The Red Cross this year, as in the past, should encounter little difficulty in obtaining the number of memberships required to carry on its work. Recently the people of the South have had an opportunity to study, at comparatively close hand, the workings of this great humanitarian organization. Reference is made to the relief work now underway in Florida and South Alabama.

How much suffering the Red Cross has lessened in the Sunshine state cannot be estimated.

It was Florida's misfortune to need the services of this great agency in 1922. It may be this section next year.

Remember this when the solicitors call, for the place of the Red Cross remains as it was during the war, "All you need is a heart and a dollar." Let us put over Albany-Decatur's quota in short order.

EAGLE WONDERS IF THERE WILL BE A "BETTER DAY, BYE AND BYE."

The Dothan Eagle, after pointing to the success of Opelika and Albany-Decatur in obtaining gigantic textile plants, lifts the plaintive query "will there be a better day, bye and bye," and meaning of course, for Dothan.

The Eagle declares in its editorial columns:

When Opelika sold a million dollar idea to New England capitalists in the form of a cotton mill her sister towns offered hearty congratulations.

And now Albany-Decatur is receiving congratulations of equal heartiness, for the Twin Cities have landed a cotton mill which will cost a million and a half dollars.

What a pity Dothan can't bid for industries! We have a good town, but we have liabilities as well as assets. And they stack up about as follows:

1. Sixteen thousand good people, all of whom want a bigger and better Dothan, but who have conflicting opinions as to how it shall be achieved.

2. Dothan has an enviable trade territory embracing portions of three states which are dotted by numerous towns, all of which are drained by three railroads and good highways leading into Dothan.

3. The Queen City of the Wiregrass sits in the precise center of the garden spot of Alabama agriculturally, and we use the phrase garden spot advisedly—for our soil is peculiarly suitable for raising garden truck and diversified crops.

4. We have a plethora of sites, both inside the city limits and immediately without, to delight the hearts of manufacturers.

5. We have labor a plenty.

6. We have excellent climatic conditions, etc.

All of these things excite the interest of the manufacturer until he reads on down the ledger further and learns:

7. We cannot offer a plenitude of cheap power. The manufacturer's interest then wanes and quickly disappears.

This is the reason Dothan is witnessing industries being located in other Alabama cities.

If we do not get unlimited cheap power we can not get industries. And if we do not get industries we have nobody to blame but ourselves.

There is no use to point out the value of manufacturing plants to a community. We know their value. We also know how to get them.

Let's quit wishing for a Better Day. Let's roll up our sleeves, work together and bring the Better Day into reality.

We can do it.

The Daily appreciates the Eagle's reference to the ability of Albany-Decatur to bring about the location here of a big plant and extends its sympathy to Dothan. The problem the Eagle discusses, of course, is much more familiar to the people of that section than it is to The Daily and it is rather startling to find any section of Alabama, already so richly blessed with power resources, to lamenting the lack of that necessary attribute in getting textile plants.

The concluding paragraph of the Eagle editorial, however, has a very familiar ring. For years The Daily preached that doctrine. For years civic speakers expounded it from various platforms. For years individuals and organizations sought to instill the thought during private conversations, but only recently did the idea take hold here.

Some two years ago a group of local business men conceived the thought that Albany-Decatur, after having dreamed of a highway bridge across the Tennessee river at this point, really should go about to get it. They did and the bridge now is nearing completion.

The Shriners decided that the Twin Cities had talked of building an addition to the hospital here long enough. They put on a campaign for funds. Instead of setting their goal at $30,000, as had been talked of at first, they had caught the new vision, and they set the goal at $60,000. The amount was over-subscribed.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce decided the Twin Cities needed a new industry. Despite the fact they were told it was "foolish" to try to bring a plant here of sufficient size to require a large amount of local financing, they persisted and finally got a good proposition from one of the soundest textile concerns in the nation. They called the business men together, and another little group of earnest citizens also had a grasp of that new vision, and they determined that this opportunity should be capitalized.

Despite obstacles, despite discouragement, despite the attitude of some who still said "it can't be done," they did it, and soon the ring of hammer on steel and the tap of trowel on brick will herald the erection of a gigantic building costing $600,000 which will be equipped with more than $1,500,000 worth of machinery and which will furnish employment, when in operation, to 750 persons in the first unit.

Albany-Decatur have just cause to be proud of that two-year record, the Eagle will agree.

AN AFTERNOON TRAGEDY

Alabama Squadron Receives The Highest Rating In The Nation

Colonel Moon Makes Report Showing Squadron To Have 25 More Hours Flying Time Than Any Others.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 9.

AP)—The 106th Observation Squadron of the 31st (Dixie) Division, Alabama National Guard received the highest rating of a 16 national guard squadron stationed in various parts of the country a recent report of training and operations of National Guard Observation Squadron throughout the United States for the year 1925, disclosed.

Colonel Harley A. Moon, adjutant general, stated the records also show that Alabama's squadron as a fraction more than 25 hours flying time above the next highest mark, made by the 115th Squadron of the California National Guard. The 106th Observation Squadron has headquarters at Birmingham, commanded by Major Sumpter Smith.

A few of the accomplishments of the 106th Squadron during the year, according to Colonel Moon, comprised the mapping of an area of over 100 square miles in Jefferson county, including the city of Birmingham. The squadron mapped and photographed the air route between Birmingham and Nashville, Tenn., for national and other uses. It also mapped and photographed state owned utilities, the Spigener, Wetumpka and Kilby prison operations. Flies of the squadron photographed for public use sections of towns and cities throughout Alabama. Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, Gadsden, Cullman, Oneonta and other places in the state were photographed by the Dixie squadron. Mapping and photographing proposed rifle ranges and camp sites for the federal government has constituted a part of the year's program.

In addition to the map work the Alabama unit has co-operated with the mine rescue service and the squadron demonstrated in a test this year that it can accomplish in 45 minutes, the transportation of men and equipment from the central station in Birmingham to a sham mine disaster, a task ordinarily requiring about four hours. Mining companies have endorsed this work and have provided landing fields near mine entrances in a number of mining districts.

A high morale dominates the organization, Colonel Moon declared in pointing out that the officers and enlisted men of the squadron have donated to the upkeep of the field at Birmingham more than $10,000 since the squadron's organization. During the current quarter the officers have donated every cent of their drill pay for the upkeep of the squadron, he said.

The Alabama National Guard has established and is maintaining here the first approved landing field in the South, not financed by the federal government. The squadron has been organized over five years and during this period not a single death casualty has been reported within its ranks. This is considered a remarkable record due to the fact that for the last year the squadron has more flying time to its credit than any other national guard squadron in the United States.

BABY'S LOST APPETITE AND THE CAUSES

Soreness of the Throat or Mouth Often Make Infants Turn From Food—Manner of Feeding Is Important.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

LOSS of appetite is a real affliction. In the first place, we do enjoy eating. The eagerness with which young and old rush to the table is a sure sign that eating is a joyful practice.

To go to the table with no stomach for food is such a reversal of the common experience that it is disturbing indeed. One of the statements heard most frequently in a doctor's office is, "I can't eat. My appetite is gone."

Accompanying these words is the most woe-begone look in the world. It is as if the last incentive to live had passed away.

But loss of appetite in a grown-up is of little importance usually. A few days' restriction of diet and a couple of days' rest will be likely to restore the appetite.

In an infant loss of appetite is a matter of concern. It shows something fundamentally wrong. The baby has no great reserve of strength and on this account needs food every day.

Loss of appetite may be due to soreness of the throat or to soreness of the mouth. The pain in swallowing causes the child to avoid food.

If the baby has been taking its feedings without trouble and suddenly refuses the bottle or breast, this should be a warning to inspect the throat and mouth. Older children who are beginning the teething process are likely to have swelling, redness and soreness of the gums. This condition is sure to affect the appetite.

The most common cause for loss of appetite relates to the manner of feeding. Irregular feeding, over-feeding, or wrong feeding will upset the stomach and cause trouble.

When the disturbance is due to the feeding, the bowels are apt to be out of order. Diarrhea is a common symptom. Vomiting may complicate the trouble.

Cutting down the quantity of food may help a lot. The milk mixture should be less rich than usual. A mixture of milk and water—one-third milk and two-thirds water—will be good treatment. Before adding the sugar mix the milk and water in the right proportion and boil them. Bring the mixture to a quick boil, stir constantly and let it boil for three minutes.

This preparation fed for two or three days instead of the regular feeding will go far toward restoration of the appetite. In a few days the regular feeding can be continued.

Sometimes the appetite will not become good until the quantity of sugar is reduced. Too much sugar is bad for a baby, just as it is for an adult.

The rubber nipple may be at fault for the loss of appetite. The baby appears to lose on his feeding job. It takes him an hour to finish his feeding. He is all worn out in consequence.

If the hole in the nipple is too small it may necessitate this extra effort. All the trouble may disappear if the opening is enlarged.

If there is loss of appetite a little study will locate the trouble. Perhaps what I have said today will suggest the remedy.

Acquiescence: A silent assent or submission, submission with apparent content, quiet satisfaction.

Dogma: That which is held as an opinion, a tenet, a doctrine. A formally stated and authoritatively settled doctrine.

Purvey: To furnish or provide, as with a convenience, provisions, or the like, to procure, to get.

Today:

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

ON FRIDAY evening our American delegation to the World disarmament conference at Geneva was leaving for a rest "distinctly encouraged." Peace prospects, you may be glad to hear, seemed bright.

AT the same time, exactly, Mr. Vernon Bailey, for our Agricultural Department, and Miss Martha Grace, of Brierly, and Bryn Mawr, were placing boy trap, of light wire, to catch a jack rabbit. The new reservoir attracted rabbits. Should one be caught he would be photographed in the wire trap, then "moved" as he galloped back over the Mojave Desert, at Modge, Cal.

It was to be a peaceful trapping for the benefit of some small boys. Like the delegates at Geneva, all hands went to bed hopeful.

THE jack rabbit was caught, the rest of the program went wrong. In the night a coyote beat down the chicken wire cage and through the wire sharp teeth gnawed off the jack rabbit's head. A tragedy in the night, not a pleasant sight in the morning.

IN this world there are human jack rabbits and coyotes. Uncle Sam at the moment is an undefended, wealthy jack rabbit, talking world peace nonsense while the coyotes build flying machines.

Some day the flying coyotes from Europe or Asia may hammer down our golden cage and spoil our peace program and dream.

STOCKS will go up and down at each turn shaking out weak gamblers. Those that gamble will lose in the end anyhow. Those that sell this country short are specially foolish.

Consider what the government's tax policy and surplus funds mean to all sound values.

THE government not only plans a heavy income tax reduction, but will probably pay back part of the surplus tax collected in 1925.

That means increased selling value for every good stock or bond without taxable dividends or interest. It is not what a stock pays, but how much of the return its owner may keep that decides value.

A BOND, income tax free, is worth at least 15 per cent more than a taxable bond of the same grade. Every cut in the tax means an increase in selling value that is seldom thought for the short side.

MUSSOLINI told the crowd, raging after the sixth and latest attack on his life, "In a few hours you shall have the decrees you have been waiting for."

They have them now. Death penalty to plot against the Premier, 30 years in jail for opposing his policies, opposition newspapers and opinions absolutely suppressed, creation of special police force to watch opponents of Fascism in their home and everywhere.

IT IS government with the iron hand, one will only and that absolute. No other government would do, trifling would be foolish. But can the iron hand govern long, and what will happen when the one iron will be part of a handful of dust?

No law can keep a finger from pressing a trigger. ON an island in the Great Salt Lake, noble sportsmen have been shooting down hison, raised in semi-captivity and presumably paying well for the noble thrill. "Perfect kills have been made at 500 yards."

With an explosive bullet, or soft-nosed bullet, that spreads out, wide as the palm of your hand, inside the animal's body, you can do wonders.

IT IS hard to imagine anything more exciting or worth while, except perhaps shooting at limousines on the Lincoln Highway. The limousine is a little bigger than a bison, but it moves more rapidly and is harder to hit.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, by the way, has checked the wild election joy of triumphant democracy with the announcement that Uncle Sam will send a nice income tax rebate dividend to cut down the taxes of 1925. That came just as the Democrats were saying there must be a cut "soon."

THEREUPON, Coolidge makes a cut "twelve months ago." Beat that.

The President, not verbose, has a sense of humor that never misses fire. "Have you heard this one?" It's true.

A certain important citizen, bored the president with a long speech, winding up with, "But, Mr. President, I must tell you that I did not vote for you."

"Well, some did," the president replied, and said nothing else.

BRUCE CARLSON, 12 years old, spent the night in the cemetery to do some serious thinking, he told the police.

His parents worried all night, and the boy's thinking was probably not serious. At 11 you cannot think seriously, even about how important you are to the universe. That comes at 16.

BRUCE CARLSON, like many of his elders, mistakes waste of time and sleep for serious thought. To think about something you can DO and then do it, is the plan that counts. Edison as a young boy, thought hard, as he sat ticking at his Morse key. But he was thinking "how to send more than one message over the same wire at the same time."

Newton was thinking on his back under the apple tree. You know what he was thinking of. "Just thinking," as Mr. Warfield would have said long ago, is not a business.

THE news that 12 young students of the University of Illinois have been expelled for drunkenness and gambling is not pleasant. Prohibition, bringing in bootlegging that establishes drunkenness among children, is not what was hoped for.

BUT there is comfort in Dean Clark's statement that while drinking among students, men and women, does not exist, it has recently fallen off.

The youthful part of the human race has not suddenly turned vicious, drunken and immoral. What seems now to youth a rather heroic defiance of law, moral and alcoholic, will soon be rejected as vicious nonsense.

And a way must be found to keep people sober, even under prohibition, for prohibition is here to stay, and to get a long trial.

The Views of Others

THE REVEREND MR. NORRIS TURNS MODERNIST

The Reverend Mr. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth expounder of the Christian religion who, with a six shooter, drilled an unarmed man into eternity, has heretofore been known as an enthusiastic Fundamentalist. But he is now a Modernist.

A fundamentalist, as every one knows, is one who believes and accepts the literal interpretation of the Bible. A Modernist on the other hand is one who doesn't.

The Reverend Mr. Norris decided it was high time to quit interpreting the Bible literally—at least one part of it. He has come to the conclusion that the commandment: "Thou shalt not kill," really means that one is not to kill with hate. By this process of reasoning he arrives at the idea that he is not guilty of murder. He enlarges as follows:

The New Testament commandment against killing means with hate. My shooting of Chippys was not murder, because my bullet was not winged with hate. The shooting was only an incident in a long continuity of events.

Yet the Reverend Mr. Norris's bitter attacks from the pulpit and with the printed word were at the beginning of the trouble. Can it be that hatred did not inspire his attacks. Can it be that it was brotherly love? The parson almost infers it.

The shooting was "only an incident" in a long continuity of events. And if he hangs it will be the concluding "

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY CENTRAL M. E. CHURCH.

The Woman's Missionary Society, that strong arm of Central Methodist church, met in all day session Monday with Mrs. J. L. Gunter, whose pretty home was further decorated with vases of white chrysanthemums. With the vice-president, Mrs. B. E. Preuit, in the chair, the meeting was opened with song, led by Mrs. John Boggess, followed by prayer. The mission study was then taken up with Mrs. W. H. Watson leading in her interesting way.

NOON HOUR

At the noon hour the Gunter dining room was opened, its table spread with lace, centered by a silver basket of the season's flowers. A silver percolator bubbled at the serving table, the aroma of good coffee filling the rooms made the twenty-five guests realize the luncheon hour had arrived. To the sandwiches brought by each guest the hostess added appetizing dainties. By this time the news began to trickle in from conference at Tuscaloosa. The very unsatisfactory removal of Rev. James D. Hunter to another field brought tears to many eyes. Later, by courtesy of the Daily, these first impressions were verified.

Mrs. James D. Hunter led the devotional in the afternoon, adding much to the interest by a relation of practical experience of leaders in rural districts. The election of officers was concluded, resulting in the unanimous selection of Mrs. Virginia Graham, whose experience as leader of the Social Service department of the church, for years, fits her for the presidency as perhaps no other woman could serve.

Advice to Girls - Problems that Vex the Young Mind are Solved.

By Annie Laurie.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am sixteen and will be a Sophomore at high school this Fall. I have never been very enthusiastic about school. I do not get interested in any of my studies, and I simply can't settle down and study as I should. I guess I am what you might call "dumb."

My mother wishes me to keep on, and I would like to do so for no other reason than I do not want to be a failure. What shall I do?

There is another question I wish you would answer. Am I too young to have young men call? I believe my mother couldn't care so much if I knew I went to shows or church affairs with them, but the young men I know only want to go to dances. The nearest movie is fourteen miles away and there is no other place of amusement nearby except a dance hall. All my girl friends and even my big sister and brother go, but I can't. Is this fair?

GOLDLOCKS: I can't urge you too strongly to continue your studies. You say not at present, appreciate the importance of education. But the time will come when you will realize as your mother does, that a sound education is a valuable asset in the business of life.

The fact that you may not be a brilliant student, should not shame you into leaving school. Get as much out of your studies as you are able. I am sure that your mother asks no more than that.

As for your second question, why don't you ask your mother's permission to invite your friends to your home? I am sure that you could entertain them quite amiably at home, without seeking the admiration of a public dance hall. I can understand perfectly your hesitancy to permit your friends to go to the dancing place that you have described. But I am sure she will PARIS.—The fur shawl is the last cry in evening wraps. It is really a beautiful and practical novelty, particularly well-adapted to chilly Parisian nights.

Max is making it like a Spanish shawl with long fringes of chenille the same shade as the fur which may be red, chartreuse, blue, purple or bottle green. For the fur shawl is usually made of dyed moleskin which is very light in weight and easily draped. One seen at the Opera recently was a very large triangle of moleskin bleached to a golden color and fringed with golden chenille. It was trimmed by an applique of leaves in the same shade as the mole and the lining was of brown velvet with the same application of leaves. A more gorgeous wrap could scarcely be imagined.

Another handsome fur shawl has been seen in dahlia red, worn over a white frock embroidered in crystals. Still another in bottle green was lined with golden colored velvet and had a color of brown fur. One in chartreuse is particularly striking with a wide border or raised roses in moleskin and a long shimmering yellow-green fringe.

Attractive fur shawls may also be made of good dyed rabbit or squirrel. If the latter is used, it is preferable to leave it in the natural state.

CHEVROLET DEALER ENTERS CONTEST

"If Rain Quits We'll Eat Turkey," Says Local Owner

With a sales contest at its peak in Chevrolet circles, Joe Russell, local manager, stated today that his crew is "going to eat turkey if it quits raining." It seems the losers in the nationwide contest are going to eat beans and that particular appeal to the sales force of the Twin City Chevrolet company.

The contest continues through November 30, each sales zone in the United States being pitted against the other. Last week the zone of which the Twin City company is a part, was pitted against the Chicago zone. This week it is the St. Louis zone and the local force intends to step on things to get results.

Mr. Russell declared that his agency covers most of Morgan and Lawrence counties and a part of Limestone. In his particular district he is battling the Montgomery district for increased sales percentage.

Baby Was So Ill She Couldn't Eat

"I got your Baby Booklet and have certainly found it helpful," writes Mrs. G. G. Gray, Box 82, R. F. D. 3, E. Chattanooga, Tenn. "My baby was so ill the doctors wouldn't let her eat, but within a short time after we started giving her Teethingina, she was as well and playful as a lamb. It sure is wonderful for babies. This mother is but one of millions who have profited by ordering Moffett's Baby Book and by using Teethingina, his prescription for Colic, Diarrhoea, Colds, Constipation and ailments among babies.

Bill Grimm's Progress H.C. WITWER

Copyright, 1926, by Collier's Weekly and G. P. Putnam Sons
"Bill Grimm's Progress" is a pictorialization by Film Booking Office of America, Inc. (F. B. O.) of H. C. Witwer's stories of the same name.

SYNOPSIS
Barbara Baxter, a federal detective, catches Jack Fairfax bootlegging, helped in her efforts by Bill Grimm. Bill comes to New York, as does Pansy Pickington, his friend, who aspires to the stage. Jack gives her a job. Bill becomes a prize-fighter and knocks out several good men. He is trained by Butch Ford. He rises rapidly. On one of his motor-boat trips with Barbara he rescues a drowning man.

I took off my shoes, shed coat, collar and shirt in the well known twinkling and dived. We were both under a half dozen times till finally I managed to tap my vis-a-vis on the chin and he went limp. His name in round numbers was Johnson, and he freely admitted being a drug fiend. Johnson had been longed to a mob of dope smugglers working with the crews of certain steamers making New York as a regular port. Coming into Quarantine at night, the crews would drop packages overboard attached to floats, and the smugglers would cruise by in the darkness later and pick 'em up.

Johnson claimed he'd been trying to break the drug habit and quit these kypes which pass in the night, who'd figured he was going to make a sequel and threatened to cook him. Terrified by their warnings and driven cuckoo by him, Johnson had decided he was taking the exit nearest him when he leaped off the ferry.

When we got to the boathouse I placed Butch Ford for dry clothes for two, and Barbara took charge of Johnson, who was close to the beehive. After he'd repeated his story to her superiors and been promised protection they sent him to a hospital for treatment.

A few days after that little experience I was working out in Butch's gym for four bits on the line to see the ready myself. I'd just got done sparring four fast frames with Shifty Jones when who walks in but Pansy Pickington.

"How did you come to be back here?" I says, anxious to get the interview over. "I thought you had a matinee today?"

"Not today or any other day, Bill!" smiles Pansy, a bit sorrowfully. "I'm not with Yes, Yes, Yvette any more. I'm—or—resting!"

"You—you threw up a chance like that?" I exclaimed, believing my ears to be liars.

"Pardon you—I did not!" returns Pansy. "Fairfax fired me!"

"Well, I'll be a cup of cocoa!" I breathes. "Look here, Pansy, you was the hit of that show. Why, some of the critics was afraid you was a success and predicted your name would soon be up in the lights! Another thing, Jack Fairfax has been trying to make you for months, to my knowledge. He wouldn't give you the air for no ordinary reason! Now, what's the answer?"

Well, she stalled for a bit, but I'm hard to discourage when I'm interested, and finally I got the low-down.

"Bill," says Pansy, toying with her hand bag and looking down at the floor, "you scored a bull's-eye with your guess that Fairfax's interest in me was—was, well, for no good reason! In fact, he—his demands—come so insulting that I had to—no him from calling on me. Did—do you know he is a drug fiend?"

I shook my head, amazed. "And that's—Bill!" continues Pansy. "He's not with a gang of dope peddlers! I found that out when I let him use my apartment one night for what he called a conference with his business associates. Naturally, I thought he meant his partners in the production of his show. When they left I told him what I'd eavesdropped, and he tried his damndest to get me to—no take cocaine, I think it was! Of course I was furious and ordered him out. Then he got raving mad and carried on something awful. He told me the real reason he'd helped me and wound up by giving me my notice!"

I'd jumped to my feet before she got half finished.

"Hold everything!" she says. "For goodness' sake lay off Fairfax, Bill. He's poison! It's just one more tough break for me, and I'll have to make the best of it. Fairfax carries a gun now, and if he found out I'd squeaked to you he's just crazy enough to do anything. Why, Bill, if I hadn't come in the night he had those men up in the night he'd have shot one named Johnson then and there for trying to out him!"

The instant the bell rung I let off steam by charging madly at Rough House Gallagher and swearing all over him. "C'mon—like it!" I inhaled, but he never got started. I just sprayed him with lefts and rights, battering him all over the ring and dropping him four times in the first two minutes. The customers was on their chairs screaming wildly, and Rough House Gallagher was on the ropes, out on his feet, when the referee stopped him. Arthur Brisbane once advised young reporters to "Be brilliant." Another writer advises after-dinner speakers to "Be brief." We would like humbly to add the suggestion to after-dinner speakers to "Be still."

Actor: "I felt a jar."

A poor girl of our acquaintance had a very unpleasant experience recently. She was awakened about three a. m. and felt sure there was a man in the room. But there wasn't.

TO ATTEND MEETING

Dr. L. C. Murphree, district health officer, will leave this afternoon for Huntsville, where he will attend a meeting tonight of the Madison county Medical society.

Saints Loom As Gridiron Champs

Chances for the Saints of St. Bernard College, Cullman, to become this year's champions in gridiron circles over the state, grow brighter with the passing weeks. The Saints eliminated another stalwart foe Friday afternoon when they rid themselves of the troublesome Huntsville Hi team, running up a 67-0 score. All the Saints scores have been heavy this year, while the opposition has been repulsed consistently in efforts to negotiate the pathway leading goalward.

Coach Stephens has an outstanding back in personage of the diminutive Bilgere. Bilgere is a whiz at crashing the forward wall and going on for long gains. His churning of the ends is another feature of his footwork. His coach declared recently that he is grooming the Saint luminary for a northern institution. The Saints have no opposition for the title in this section and will turn their attention to the central and south Alabama teams in the waning weeks of the season.

Falkville Coach Asking a Game

Falkville will be delighted to accept a game with an Independent squad, according to Coach Garrison who has been leading the Falkville Hi squad this year. Coach Garrison talked with Pryor McRee, fullback of the Independents last year and made known the wish that the game be played on November 19, Falkville having an open date at that time.

McRee is more of the opinion that a post-season tilt will offer the flock of Independents an opportunity to get in some sort of condition, as well as arrange a method of play. It is probable that announcements from both camps will be made in a short time.

Austin Will Head Post of Legion

Local friends of Dr. B. F. Austin, former local and district health officer, but now of Huntsville, will be interested in news of his selection as commander of the American Legion post in Huntsville at a recent election. Dr. Austin returned to Huntsville several months ago to resume the private practice of medicine.

COURT STILL GRINDS

The county court continues today its hard grind and a number of cases were expected to be settled before the end of the court day this afternoon. Cases also are docketed for Wednesday and Thursday.

'BAMA TAKES A DAY FOR REST

Tide Goes Against Frosh Today To Get In Shape

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 9.—Alabama's Crimson Tide, scheduled for only two more games this fall, took an off-day here Monday, partly because of the rain that fell all day and partly because of the desire of the Crimson coaches to give the squad members a day of rest. Tuesday, however, was scheduled to be a mean day of practice with the freshmen pitted against the regulars in practice.

Both Crimson teams got into action again this week, the "rats" being scheduled to play the Mississippi A. and M. "rats" on the campus Friday afternoon and the varsity to appear in Montgomery against the Florida Gators. Both teams are undefeated for the season, the frosh having three victories to their credit and the varsity having seven wins to its credit.

Alabama's freshmen team has won from the "rates" of Howard, Birmingham-Southern and Georgia. Each victory has been by a decisive score. The frosh backs who have distinguished themselves in these games are Captain Starling, Hickey, Lowery, Tuck, Brown, Hickey, and the brunt of the line play has been credited to Miller, Mitcham, Dey, Caulk, White, Fowler and McWright.

The Tide expect little trouble from Florida Saturday but are a bit dubious as to the strength of their opponents because of their 33-0 victory against Clemson this past Saturday. As a result of that impressive victory of the Floridians, the Tide bosses are going to send their full strength against the Gators at the very start in order to acquire a margin of victory, if such is possible, before the game has been on long.

Alabama's all-southern possibilities came through in splendid shape Saturday and the men are all set for another tough game Saturday. If Florida is bowled over as other conference opponents have been this season, the Tide will have only Georgia to beat to win the Southern championship again.

"SO'S YOUR OLD MAN" IS POPULAR PHRASE AND FILM

"So's Your Old Man." A new epidemic has struck our peaceful town. Everywhere one goes, he sees signs of it. No matter where you are, you can't help hearing it. People stand on street corners and shout at the top of their lungs. Fathers meet their sons with it. Wives greet husbands in the same way. Not since the Charleston has anything equalled it. Always that same line— "So's Your Old Man."

But perhaps there's a reason. We suspect that the instigators of this "So's Your Old Man" movement can be found within the limits of the Princess Theatre. Why? Because a film called "So's Your Old Man" is about to be shown there tomorrow.

W. C. Fields is star-ved in this new Paramount comedy. Alice Joyce and Charles Rogers are featured. Gregory La Cava directed. We think you'll laugh and so'll your old man!

Rain Halts Preparation On Grid By Local Stalwarts For Week-End

Gentle drops of moisture starting at the noon hour and continuing until past midnight halted local grid preparations for the invasions of Guntersville and Fairview on next Friday.

Had coaches been aware of the outlook for weather conditions they doubtless would have called an early season practice for the swimming team. Grid folks did not look forward with any degree of anticipation to doing any flying Dutchmen or jack-knife antics during the somewhat moist afternoon and as a result regulars had another day in which to nurse wounds, boils and general disabilities occasioned by a season of rough and tumble.

Though Tuesday looked somewhat gloomy coaches were determined that nothing short of a hurricane could keep their charges from preparations for the week-end. Both Albany and Decatur are pointing for the Friday games with a great deal of satisfaction, knowing that they have a hard fight ahead and that the glory will come to the man who fights the hardest.

Decatur put up a good battle against the heavier Athens Argies last week and although losing 14-0, they have nothing at all to be embarrassed over. Any team that plays its hardest and does its best has nothing to hide its face about. The spectator who does a bit of kidding about football games doesn't realize how much it hurts the fellow who is playing after he has lost, neither does the spectator intend to over-do his stuff for he usually is rattling away about some fault of a team when if he was trying for the team it is probable that he couldn't get a steady job as shoulder and repairer.

Albany came through the Sheffield game minus more laurels and with some few bruises. Nothing serious in the way of an injury showed up in the ranks of the Purple and a greater strength should be placed against Fairview this week. Certain ineptitudes should be back in the game, provided they have made sufficient impression upon the scholastic records to make their presence known in school.

Albany faces one of the hardest fighting teams in the northern section, a team that isn't going to bow to defeat until the final toot has been played upon the referee's whistle. Albany has no bed of roses provided for this week-end and the few days left for practice will be utilized to the fullest extent by the wearers of the Purple and Gold.

With only a pair of games left for the year it seems a certainty that local lads will forget self and everything else but school honors in an attempt to bring about something of an excellent showing toward the fall end of the year.

The time is not too late for the Albany and Decatur elevens to get something done out of the ordinary, they can wind up their years work with wins and be far ahead of themselves for last year. Its too early to think of next year, so lads and coaches will confine themselves to thoughts of what can be done at this end of the season. Coaches are hopeful, followers are hopeful, the eyes of the sporting cities are turned upon the two teams now wearing the colors of the home clubs. The boys must come through in these final tilts if they hope to share the honor that comes to a winning eleven.

SEWER STOPPED

The street department of the City of Albany, under the direction of Superintendent E. R. Adecock, is endeavoring to un-stop a sewer which serves the west side of Second avenue, in the heart of the business district.

Malone To Aid In Getting Club

Mayor B. L. Malone, owner of Malone Park, will aid the Junior Chamber of Commerce in any way possible in the effort to bring a well-known baseball team here next spring for training. Asked about the question by a representative of the Junior Chamber, Mayor Malone said: "You can count on me to do anything within my power to help the Juniors bring a baseball club here next spring. I think it would be a great advertising for us."

Is Your Printing Working FOR or against you?

Your business reputation is made up entirely of impressions—what others think of you—and largely of FIRST impressions. First impressions lodge deeply; they're hard to change.

Many first impressions are formed by the printed material you use—your letterheads, envelopes, statements, direct mail advertising, etc. Good impressions if the printing is well done. Otherwise bad impressions.

Don't spend money to injure your own business. Insist on printing that builds good will. It is better to foot the bill for good-will-building printing than to foot the bill for stagnant business.

We print for the business man who demands that his printing be loyal to his business.
